

DEVELOPMENTS IN AVIATION SAFETY TAKE CENTRE STAGE AT INTERNATIONAL FORUM

The European Aviation Safety Agency (EASA) held its third International Cooperation Forum

(ICF) from 15 to 17 November at the Singapore Aviation Academy, hosted by the Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore (CAAS). The conference brought together states and aviation organisations that apply European aviation safety standards in their national or regional jurisdictions, providing a platform for them to share experiences and best practices, as well as discuss developments in aviation safety.

Patrick Goudou, Executive Director, EASA, expressed confidence in greater partnerships between the participating states and aviation organisations through the third edition of the ICF.

Stressing the importance of ensuring safety amid the continued growth of aviation, Yap OngHeng, Director-General, CAAS, said, “This Forum provides a useful platform for all the partners to work together towards this goal. It is particularly opportune that the International Cooperation Forum is being held in the Asia Pacific for the first time, given the rapid development of aviation in the region.”
