ELECTRONIC AERONAUTICAL INFORMATION PUBLICATION (eAIP) SINGAPORE

- 1 As part of our effort to enhance the provision of air navigation services in Singapore, CAAS will implement the electronic Aeronautical Information Publication (eAIP) Singapore with effect from 26 May 2016.
- 2 The introduction of eAIP Singapore is in line with the International Civil Aviation Organisation (ICAO) requirements to enhance safe and efficient global Aeronautical Information Management (AIM) that would support a digital, real-time, accredited and secure aeronautical information environment.
- 3 The eAIP Singapore is an Extensible Markup Language (XML) document built on a highly structured Aeronautical Information Exchange Model (AIXM) compliant aeronautical information database. This allows aeronautical data to be published with increased consistency, integrity and usability. It also provides ease of browsing, facilitated by Hyper Text Markup Language (HTML) technology (use of hot links, tool tips, etc.) and possibility to visualize changes both in text and graphics.
- 4 AIS Singapore has discontinued the distribution of hard copies Singapore Aeronautical Information Publication (AIP), AIP Amendments (AMDT), AIP Supplements (SUP), Aeronautical Information Circulars (AIC) and NOTAM Lists since 30 April 2015. Currently, all AIS users can continue to retrieve the soft copies of these publications in portable document format (pdf) from CAAS' website at <https://www.caas.gov.sg>.
- 5 AIP Singapore (Third Edition) or eAIP Singapore will be published and deployed on 26 May 2016. All AIS users may retrieve the electronic Singapore IAIP, comprising AIP, AMDT, SUP and AIC, in both pdf and HTML documents, from AIM-SG URL <https://fpl-1.caasaim.gov.sg>.
