FLIGHT CREW LICENSING

26 September 2014, Singapore Aviation Academy

With lives and businesses highly dependent on air transportation today, safety in the aviation industry is of paramount importance. To ensure that Singapore adheres to international safety standards and best practices, CAAS continues to strive for the highest standards in flight crew licensing and training to facilitate safe and efficient flight-operations.

In this talk, participants will gain insight into CAAS' regulatory updates, including upcoming changes relating to flight crew licensing and training requirements. Participants will also have the opportunity to preview the new licensing system currently in development.

We look forward to having you at this CAAS Safety Series talk.

About the CAAS Safety Series

CAAS seeks to promote a strong safety culture and embed a robust safety framework through greater collaboration and engagement with the aviation community. The CAAS Safety Series was therefore launched in early 2011 as a platform to better engage the aviation industry on developments in safety policies and regulations as well as new initiatives from the industry. The Series comprises a mix of talks, workshops or seminars on topical issues related to aviation safety. Please visit www.caas.gov.sg for the calendar of events.
