

YOUR “AVIATION INSPIRATIONS” AS SEEN THROUGH PHOTOGRAPHS

As part of the Singapore Aviation Centennial Celebrations, the Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore (CAAS) organised a photography competition themed “Aviation Inspirations” to showcase the vibrant aviation industry and its impact on people’s lives. Over 250 outstanding entries were submitted between August and September and the winning images effectively captured the essence of aviation.

The Singapore Aviation Centennial Exhibition highlights the milestones that have shaped the industry today

In the open category, participants were invited to submit images that best illustrate the multifaceted aviation industry. Ng Wei Chean's winning photograph, titled "Reflections of Aviation" (above), is a collage depicting a variety of interesting activities at Changi Airport.

The Singapore Aviation Centennial Exhibition highlights the milestones that have shaped the industry today

For the special category, the photograph titled "Fly Me To My Dreams" (above) was declared the winning entry. Taken by Jervis Mun Joon Hooe, the photograph was accompanied by the caption, "Aviation has been with us for more than a century. Yet it still captures so many hearts and imagination. Flight brings us to our dreams."

The winners of the 'Aviation Inspirations' photography competition.

L to R: Tan Choon Lai, David Ng, Ng Wei Chean, Yap Ong Heng (Director-General of CAAS), Taurus Yeo, Jervis Mun (Eileen Tan was unable to attend.)

The winners were presented with their prizes on 4 November at the Aviation Open House 2011. Top prizes included cash, as well as Singapore Airlines return economy class tickets to a variety of exciting destinations, such as Athens, Bali, Sao Paulo, Melbourne, Ho Chi Minh and Maldives.