

NATIONAL AEROSPACE NON-DESTRUCTIVE TESTING BOARD TO BE FORMED

Mrs Josephine Teo, Minister of State for Finance and Transport, meeting with industry guests at the Singapore AeroIndustry Annual Meeting 2012. Photo courtesy of Association of Aerospace Industries (Singapore).

The Association of Aerospace Industries (Singapore) (AAIS) announced on 17 September 2012 that it is establishing the Singapore National Aerospace Non-Destructive Testing Board (SNANDTB).

The SNANDTB will assist in both the professionalisation of aerospace NDT personnel, and the harmonisation of overall NDT standards in the industry. A Pro-Tem Board, comprising both senior management and NDT professionals from the aerospace industry, was set-up to establish the Board.

As part of the initiative, the AAIS signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with the NDT Society of Singapore at the event. The MOU will see both parties provide technical advice and support to the Board, and updates on new standards, developments and requirements.